February 20: World Unites

Martial artists perform an exhibition of sword fighting as a captivated audience gasps at every swift blow stopped by a quick movement of a metal shield; sparks fly everywhere. Dance troupes perform dances from distant lands that are rarely seen in the United States. Homemade dishes of Malay, Thai, Indian, Greek and Italian food are made with careful preparation. The foods of these countries are joined by those of over thirty countries in this year's International Festival, "United Cultures of UB."

The annual festival, now in its twelfth year, is presented by the International Relations Club and the Office of International Services. The cultural and culinary memories of past festivals will be renewed as the festival moves to Marina Dining hall on Saturday, February 20. The festival has a new location this year to facilitate the number of countries participating from twenty to approximately thirty. The number of people expected to attend is also on the rise.

Students from their respective countries prepare an exhibition booth from which they will be serving three of their national dishes. The booths are extravagantly decorated with arts, crafts and pictorial scenes from each country providing a vivid display of the many richly diverse culture at UB.

The theme to this year's festival "United Cultures of UB" stems from the desire to have students from the United States, Japan, Germany and everywhere in between to share their cultures with each other under one roof. The IRC and Office of International Services are encouraging all students to join in this year's festival.

With as many as ninety dishes to taste and several performances to enjoy throughout the night, dancing is also included, the $8 admission for UB students is a ticket for a trip around the world. The festival begins at 7 p.m. in Marina Dining Hall this Saturday. More information can be obtained by calling the International office at 576-4395.

Tournament of the Minds

While most of the world was watching the opening games of the 1988 Olympics, UB was holding a competition of its own. This past Saturday the College Bowl came to UB. The College Bowl is a test of the minds' knowledge. There were a wide variety of questions asked that ranged from Historical, Geographical, Medical, Scientific, Theatrical, Literature to Mathematical and Spelling problems. To give you a taste of some of the questions asked, here are a few examples: "When the Congress of Vienna convened in 1914, why weren't the Royal representatives of Belgium, Norway, and Greece invited?" "What two-word term is used to designate zero degrees Kelvin or minus 273.16 Degrees Celsius?" "In the Bokanovsky Process, reproduction is accomplished by "budding" and instead of one human being resulting, there will be from eight to ninety-six humans, all identical. Which Hurley novel describes the Bokanovsky Process?"

Five UB teams participated in the competition. There was one graduate team from the Law School, the participants were Kerry Freidle, Tim Hasley, Mike McMullen and Sean Jones. The four Undergraduate teams were as follows: From the International Relations Club came the team Trans-Global Unity, participants were Arthur Perry, Sahel Shuwayhat, Marcus Teo and Michael Halal. The next team was from Sealey Hall named The Four East Beasts, had Stu Burrows, Dan Willis, Keith Montgomery, and Tom Gwilliam as representatives.

Another team from Sealey, The Murder Burgers, had Joe D'Antonio, Kyle Malady, Ken Piercy, and James Holly as participants. The final team were representatives of The Scribe, participants were Stewart Altschuler, Justine Talskey, Kristen Dreistadt and Dawn LeFever.

EDITORIAL

Editors Respond

This week's editorial is in response to a letter by James N. Tallberg of the UB College Republicans printed in last week's issue of the Scribe.

First, we would like to take this opportunity to express our sincere wish that last semester's political rebirth on campus will continue this year, as well as thank those who gave the university community cause to expand upon their own political views in a debate held last December. Secondly, there are several misconceptions that were raised in Mr. Tallberg's letter that need to be cleared up.

The College Republicans were in no way attacked at any length in the December 10th editorial. The organization was mentioned only briefly, and that was for participating in the debate. Is this what is considered to be "attacked at length"? Perhaps the "attack" you were referring to Mr. Tallberg was your own quote which stated "Did the organized left get lost at the gay rights parade?" Of course, that could not have been the "attack" you had cited since neither you nor the College Republicans were mentioned.

As for the point that the Scribe did not print an article on the debate, and had remarked only briefly about it in an editorial, you are quite correct. However, if you had read the editorial a little more carefully you would have realized that it was about the search for peace, and not the debate specifically. We are sorry you did not appreciate the editorial.

In the closing stages of your letter you ask, "can't we find a more burning issue than the Chippendales?" We assume you mean that the Chippendales issue is an insignificant one when compared to this election year. When in fact, it is very important because it addresses the question of what events administration will and will not allow on campus. Even more puzzling is the fact that administration is allowing the Mr. UB Contest to take place on campus for the third year in a row and they are denouncing the Chippendales? Are they not similar events? Thank you for your letter.

A continuing problem

Last semester The Scribe began with almost an entirely new editorial staff. The newspaper then went on to go through major changes. The entire look of the newspaper was transformed. The changes came about with the help of a graphic design student who changed the type-face, mast-head, page heads and staff box. The Scribe also achieved a new look by bringing in the unique style of an illustration major. The new managing editor brought in diverse and exciting changes, including purchasing computers to benefit the layout of the paper. Two issues of last semester's Scribe were also recognized locally and nationally. However, the operating structure, which the University is responsible for creating, resulted in only one member of the staff returning to The Scribe this semester.

After seeing the first two issues of the Scribe, I decided to come back because of my experience from last semester. But after taking the position of News Editor for the second time, the reasons why I had previously left all quickly came back to me. To put out a newspaper every week is a difficult task. It is even more difficult when the entire staff is new and inexperienced.

The fact is that there is a high burn-out rate when running the newspaper. For every semester I have attended UB there has been a different managing editor of the Scribe. There is not an adequate reason why a newspaper should be run in this manner. The newspaper should not have to start from scratch every semester. It does not service the students when operated this way.

It is a fact that the University of Bridgeport owns the Scribe and does not provide any type of program to ensure consistency of quality production. How can the University possibly go on this way? A quality newspaper can be easily obtained if the University took some steps in the right direction.

Students should be able to earn credits for working on the newspaper. If it is possible to receive credits for playing raquetball, it should be possible to receive credits for working on the school newspaper. A class could be structured specifically for the Scribe. Perhaps, it is possible to somehow work in co-op job, the experience of running a newspaper is invaluable to many majors. The University of Bridgeport has a number of students whose talents are wasted due to a lack of motivation.

It is not my intention to demean the staff of the Scribe. They should be commended for their hard work and dedication, as well as the Scribe staff in past years. Nevertheless, it is imperative for the welfare of the students that changes be made.

I will no longer be an editor for the Scribe. I will, however, do what I can to improve The University of Bridgeport's Newspaper. It is an important part of the University which should not be ignored.

To the Editor:

Did you know that the academic rules have been changed at UB? If you didn't you're not the only one. Quite a few people who have already completed, or are soon to complete their degree programs will discover that they no longer qualify for academic honors. It seems that the QPR levels necessary to qualify for honors have been raised.

I completed my undergraduate program in December of 1987 and according to the 1987 catalog should be receiving my diploma magna cum laude, right? Wrong, somebody changed the rules. Well obviously you didn't talk to the right people, right? Wrong, during my last semester all of the advisors and faculty I spoke to were unaware of the change.

I am greatly disturbed by my inability to receive the rewards for my hard work over the years. I feel strongly that the rules have been changed after my game is over.

Policies that reward students for academic excellence are important milestones by which we and the world measure achievement during the college years. I do not believe it is fair to withdraw these honors from those who have earned them through years of hard work and determination.

So, to those who have not received their degrees yet, remember: It ain't over till it's over. Ain't that the truth.

SCBOD Rewrites Constitution

by Justine Talsky,
Managing Editor

At the Student Council meeting last Wednesday, Student Council unanimously approved a new SCBOD (Student Center Board of Directors) constitution.

SCBOD was required to make changes in their constitution after last year's Student Council approved the recommendations of the Student Council Budget Committee at the April 29th, 1987, Student Council meeting. The Budget Committee is composed of the Treasurers of each budgeted organization, and is chaired by the President of Student Council. The Budget Committee proposal stated, "The Student Center Board of Directors should be budgeted no moneys unless they agreed to ratify their constitution, by September 30, 1987, to provide for the campus wide election of their President and Vice Presidents. This ratification should also provide for the appointment... of the Treasurer. Nominations should be by petition and open to all students. The Treasurer's appointment should be contingent upon the approval of the General Board of SCBOD."

At this Student Council meeting an emotional appeal was made by the newly elected SCBOD President, Randy Wanser. Wanser asked Student Council not to vote on the proposal because: 1. Student Council had not had a chance to read over the proposal and 2. the proposal would affect the entire organizational structure of SCBOD. The Budget Committee wrote this proposal because SCBOD is allocated the largest amount of funds in any student organization, including Student Council, and the committee felt SCBOD did not represent all of the full-time undergraduate students when they make decisions as to where this money will go. It was felt that there was "taxation without representation." An amendment to the proposal was made to change the date from September 30 to November 30, which allowed SCBOD more time to make changes to their constitution and the proposal was passed.

At the beginning of this school year SCBOD's constitution committee began meeting to start rewriting the SCBOD constitution. On October 5, Student Council executive board members and representatives from the SCBOD Constitution Committee met to discuss what changes were to be made. Student Council told SCBOD that if they wanted to make changes to the Budget Committee proposal dated April 24, 1987, SCBOD would have to write a new proposal. The Constitution committee wrote a new proposal which was submitted to Student Council on October 15, 1987.

The new proposal required the President and Vice President of SCBOD to be members of SCBOD. Nominations for these offices would be from the General Board and elected by secret ballot from within the General Board of SCBOD. The proposal described how programs would be approved to call for more representation in making decisions and spending money.

At the October 28th, 1987 Student Council meeting there was great discussion and after questions of Parliamentary procedure arose, the proposal was tabled. At the next Student Council meeting an amendment was made to hold campus-wide elections of SCBOD's President and Vice President, not by secret ballot of the General Board. At this meeting the Amendment Proposal was passed by Student Council.

The SCBOD Constitution Committee began writing their new constitution. The new SCBOD constitution calls for three major changes. The first major change calls for seven standing committees instead of the current four. The committees are 1. Major Events, "which will plan large traditional events such as the Winter Prelude and Spring Week." 2. Carriage House, "which will provide a series of programs in that facility." 3. Film/Video, "which will plan the film series and provide either film and/or video programs." 4. "Knight Life," "which will plan social events, comedy and music programs." 5. Graphics and Promotion, "which will provide all programming committees with promotional support." 6. Concerts, "which will plan major concerts with national acts, and smaller regional and/or local bands to support other committees" and 7. Hospitality, "which will provide hospitality support to the above committees." The current committees are 1. Entertainment, 2. Film/Video, 3. Publicity and 4. Concerts.

Article three also discusses how the programs are to be approved. Committees will submit ideas to the General Board, including all costs, promotional campaigns, and facility reservations. All programs must be approved by a simple majority of the General Board. Due to the nature of concert bookings there will be a five person concert board of the Concert Committee. There must be agreement amongst at least 3 of the 5 members of the concert board before a bid can be placed on an act.

Another major change of the new constitution involves the election of the President and Vice President. There will no longer be two Vice Presidents since the Major Events Committee will take over most of the Vice President of Administrative Affairs (also known as 'internal') job description. As required by Student Council legislation, the President and Vice President will be elected in a campus wide election, which will take place at the same time as the Student Council elections. Nominees for these positions will be made by the membership of SCBOD and the nominees must be members in good standing of the General and/or Executive Boards of SCBOD.

Student Council unanimously approved the new SCBOD constitution at their February 10th, 1988 meeting without discussion.

The University Community will be able to observe the changes to the SCBOD constitution in many ways. The campus-wide Student Council elections will for the first time, include elections for SCBOD President and Vice President. Also, programs will be chosen by the General Board of SCBOD, not by individual programmers.

A member of the State Senate since the age of 27, Lieberman has served there for the past ten years, the last six as majority leader. He has served as Attorney General since 1983.

Last spring, he addressed the graduating class of the UB School of Law in a speech that outlined the role of attorneys in a changing society.

Pakistan Student Association

A meeting of the Pakistani students of U.B. was held on January 7, 1988 in Rennel Hall to discuss the matters of common interest. With a view to providing a forum for the Pakistani students of U.B. so that they could carry out promotion of their culture and undertake other activities of mutual interest, it was decided to form a Pakistani Student Association.

Necessary arrangements in this regard are accordingly being made so that the Pakistan Student Association will be registered before the International Festival, scheduled to be held on Feb. 20, 1988.

and hosted the event. Rich Haught, assistant director of Student Activities at West Conn was the moderator of the competition. Haught is the New England Regional Coordinator of the College Bowl.

With all five teams ready the games began. The rules of the competition were as follows: Two teams competed at a time. The moderator asks a "toss-up" question, the first person to hit their electronic buzzer must wait to be recognized by Fargo and then must answer the question immediately. If the person answers the question correctly, the team is then given a chance to confer on a bonus question. This was a double elimination tournament, which means a team must lose twice in order to be eliminated from the competition. The competition finally narrowed down to two teams, The Scribe and The Law School. The Scribe had previously won two games and had made it into the championship. The Law School had defeated the Four East Beasts in the first round and then had lost the next round to Trans-Global Unity. The Law School and Trans-Global had to face each other once again to determine which team went on to the championship. This time around The Law School was triumphant. In order for The Scribe to win the championship, they needed to defeat the Law School once. In order for the Law School to win they had to defeat The Scribe twice. This was not as difficult as it may sound, The Law School went on to win two games in a row and become the champions of the tournament. Congratulations to the Law School.

The competition is not over yet however—the four highest scorers go onto the regional competition in Massachusetts. The four men chosen for the varsity team are: The Law School's Kerry Friedle and Tim Haseley. The Four East Beasts' Dan Willis, and the Murder Burger's Joe D'Antonio. Incidentally, one of the highest scorers from Trans-Global Unity, Michael Halal, will not be going on to compete because of the restriction of being a full-time student. Another fine player, Mike McMullen of the Law School, may have been chosen, however, only two graduate students are allowed on the varsity team.

If the answers to the questions in the beginning of the article came fairly easily to you, perhaps you should consider forming a team for next year's College Bowl. In case the answers did not come easily they are: "The Counties did not exist," "absolute zero" and "Brave New World." Congratulations to all who participated and to those who are going to represent UB at the Regionals.

The Astonishing Neal Comes to UB

by David Fabrizzio

Seeing your roommate become a dog right in front of your eyes is what most came to expect when the Astonishing Neal came to the Campus, and he really delivered. This was a show which many are still talking about, especially those who were hypnotized at the show.

One girl, in particular, did not want to come out of her hypnotic state, luckily Neal was still around to take her out of the trance! He really gave the attendees the feeling of being one big family, and admitted that his ESP abilities are at least "kind of spooky." With calling out names, releasing information only known to the owner, while being completely blindfold! He showed us that if you ever forget your Social Security number, but if it is buried in your mind, he will be glad to help. He even has a number at which you can contact him, however, you had to be at the show to get it. One can even ask him about past thefts, just as one student did after the show.

The second part of his show

consisted of pure hypnosis. This part went just as expected. He made group be everything he wanted them to, from Elvis to the Incredible Hulk. He made the floor red hot, causing a commotion which gave the stage crew laughs and a few worries. One of the funnier scenes was when he had them "see" a favorite animal of theirs, life size. One girl imagined a giraffe, which she made miniature, but Neal realized this and commanded it to be life-size. She not only was amazed, but terrified to see an animal so close-up. The last was when Neal made his own body disappear. This really took the group to a place where no man has gone before.

Neal states at the end of the show this is available to everyone, not only self-hypnosis but ESP also. SCBOD is already talking about bringing him back next semester. Will we see, maybe a Valby/Neal weekend? Just have to return next semester to see if a Neal sequel is forthcoming.

Images From a Cotillion Crasher

by Dawn LeFever

As I sat in the lobby of Barnum waiting for a friend, it became obvious that something special was happening. Guys that I usually see in sweats and Adidas were suddenly young men in tuxedos bearing roses and carnations. Young ladies in shimmering red dresses looking like they had just walked off the set of Dynasty proudly displayed their corsages as they headed outdoors. Groups of people, all clad in similar attire, seemed to head in the direction of the Student Center. Curiosity, as always, got the best of me and I soon found myself in the same direction. Outside, it was cold and blustery. But inside, the Social Room had been transformed into a romantic garden where couples gazed into each others' eyes forgetting the strawberry cheesecake in front of them.

It was the eve of a lovers' holiday and this was the Inter-Fraternity/Sorority Council's annual Cotillion. The warm glow of candles and the misty scent of fresh flowers created a spell-binding aura for falling in love. Aptly picked, this year's theme was "Since I Fell For You." The band started and the sound of cool jazz chilled the interior just enough to make the space between couples obsolete. Soon they were on the dance floor swaying closely in rhythm. But it was not long before the night started to heat up and bodies moved to a quicker beat. I felt myself being pulled toward the dancefloor assuming it was the mesmerizing sound and the smell of excitement which drew me near. But I quickly awoke from my hypnotic state to see that it was my friend's hand which moved my body as she yelled "Come on, let's dance!"

We were soon engulfed by a group of smiling coryphees. The sounds of Al Jarreau, Whitney Houston and Motown shook the walls and all within. The night came to a close too quickly for this crasher. But the eyes of some couples told me their night was not finished yet. And so, as I found myself back in my room, I pondered the night's events and looked forward to next year's Cotillion promising to be one of the red satin smiles.

Will Cooper and Chaffee Reopen?

by Markus Blaus

According to Student Services all the structural repairs are finished on Cooper and Chaffee Halls but some improvements still need to be done. Renovations include painting, replacing ceiling tiles, and installing a security system. The real question still remains. Will Cooper and Chaffee be open for students to move in next semester?

An interview with Vice-President Jacqueline Benamati revealed that the chances look good that the halls will reopen. By the end of the month a meeting will take place with Vice-President Benamati, Vice-President Heneghan, Dean of student life Paul DeGennaro, Associate Director for Residence Life Allen Longendyke, and others to discuss the situation and a final decision will be made by the end of the semester.

Benamati said she personally would like to see the halls open but they want to make sure all renovations will be finished and a review of the population of the campus next year needs to be done. Former residents of these halls will be notified of any developments.

The former residents are anxious to "go home" to their old dorms. This can be seen in their actions. At the beginning of last semester Chaffee Hall government was promptly organized and the Cooper Four Playboy Party is already scheduled for March. As one resident said, "It's more than dorm."

Women's Basketball Profile

by John Ziobro,
Sports Editor

Belinda Hill, a 5'10" forward from Laurelton, N.Y., is averaging almost 20 points and over 8 rebounds per game so far this season. Hill has been a steady performer throughout her UB career. Her first two years she averaged over 9 points a game while last year, as a junior she averaged an outstanding 20.6 points per game. With that performance last year she won the New England Collegiate Conference scoring title, as well as being named to the All-NECC and ECAC first team.

Hill became the first Lady Knight to reach the 1,000 point mark as she hit the mark with a field goal in the NECC playoffs last year. She also has set the single season scoring mark, at UB, last year, at 454 points.

Up and Down

Bridgeport, CT—After dropping three straight conference games, the Purple Knights defeated Southern Connecticut at Harvey Hubbell Gym, 80-62. Senior All-American Norman Taylor highlighted the Knights' attack with a game-high 32 points. The Manhattan, NY native connected on 13 of 15 of his field-goal attempts while grabbing seven rebounds. Freshman Joel Teague added 13 points for the victors.

Bridgeport, CT—UB tried to keep its winning ways against the visiting Lowell Chiefs on Feb. 6, but a balanced scoring attack allowed UL to escape with a 70-66 decision. Taylor netted 24 points on the night, including his 2,000th career point. The 6-7, 240 lbs. forward was 7 of 11 from the field and 10 of 11 from the charity stripe. The NBA All-Star break permitted Golden State Warrior Chris Mullin to watch his brother John for the first time this season. Coming off an ankle sprain, the younger Mullin poured in 18 for the Knights.

Manchester, NH—a three and a half hour road trip would not hinder the Purple Knights from picking up their 16th win of the season. UB, in its most exciting game of the season, edged the hometown New Hampshire College Penmen, 83-80. Taylor netted a game-high 34 points and grabbed 16 boards and was involved in a shootout with NHC's Kirk Jackson. Jackson poured in 33 for the Penmen. The game's outcome would come down to the final 28 seconds. Mullin buried a three-pointer with 28 ticks on the clock to give the Knights an 81-80 lead. In the final seconds, Tokunbo Oke blocked Jackson's shot with seven seconds left on the clock. Mullin retrieved the rebound and was fouled. Two free throws by the Brooklyn, NY native accounted for the final score.

Purple Knight Leaders: Norman Taylor, Sr. F, 25.3 ppg, 13.3 rpg; John Mullin, Sr. G, 13.5 ppg, 2.1 rpg; Deng Nhial, Sr. F, 12.3 ppg, 4.7 rpg; Steve Ray, So. PG, 5.5 ppg, 21.6 assists.

La Grua Continues to Shine

Women's Gymnastics (7-6)
Washington, D.C. — Although UB placed sixth among eight teams at the George Washington Invitational, sophomore sensation Maureen LaGrua captured first place finished in the vault, uneven bars, floor exercises and the all-around. Along with the first-place finishes, the Hackettstown, NJ native broke every UB record on each event, including the beam which she placed second. Her scores included 9.6 on the vault, 9.6 uneven bars, 9.5 beam, 9.6 floor exercise and 38.3 in the all-around. She broke all the record she previously set as a freshman. LaGrua was selected the Eastern College Athletic Conference Division II gymnast of the week for her efforts at the GW Invitational.

Providence, R.I.—UB split a tri-match with a team total 171.2 points against Brown University's 172.45 and Springfield College's 170.95. LaGrua once again topped the Knights with three firsts and two seconds. She won the bars (9.25), the beam (8.95) and the all-around (36.2) while finishing second in the floor (9.0) and vault (9.0). Senior co-captain Karen Jacobson won the floor exercise with a 9.1.

MEN'S VOLLEYBALL (5-1)

Bridgeport, CT: The men's volleyball team upped its season record to 2-0 after easily defeating Westfield State College at Harvey Hubbell Gymnasium, 15-7, 15-7, and 15-11. Keith Roseberry was the Knights' big gun as he continued his excellent play at the net.

Bridgeport, CT: The Knights captured two more victories with a 15-6, 15-6 victory over Western New England and a 15-8, 15-7 showing with Yeshiva.

Poughkeepsie, NY: UB travelled to Vassar College for a tri-meet with the host and York College. The Knights picked up their fifth straight victory as York had to forfeit its match. In the nightcap, Vassar defeated UB, 15-7, 15-11 and 15-5. Roseberry and John Nadvornick starred for the 5-1 Purple Knights.
